THAR BE MERMAIDS IN THESE WATERS!

Have you ever met a mermaid? In her many years working as an artist, and during her travels throughout the world, Carol Worthey has encountered numerous mermaids. She does not normally like to talk about this. When she does people have a tendency to look at her strangely and back out of the room.

But the proof is in the seaweed pudding, a traditional mermaid favorite. Over the years Carol has created spectacular portraits of her mermaid friends in their natural habitats in the world's oceans. Several of these were displayed to acclaim at the Florence Biennale last December. The reaction her paintings received encouraged Carol to make these previously secret works broadly available. For the first time ever, a special site has been prepared where you can see representations of Carol's mermaid masterpieces. Each painting is accompanied by a unique story. The history of each mermaid, and of mermaids in general, is magically revealed.

The site is newly opened and filled with fun and surprises. Join us, bring the children and indulge in the wonder and mystery that are the Mermaids of the World. No snorkeling equipment required!

CAROL GETS BRASSY AGAIN!

World-renowned musician Luca Benucci and his hand-selected group of world class musicians have again performed Carol's signature composition: "Fanfare for the New Renaissance."
